

THE HOUSE OF BREAD

PASTOR TIMOTHY GREEN

Jesus said that He was the bread of life. Since Jesus is the bread, the church should be the bakery. The church should be the place where people go to eat and be fed with the bread of life, but unfortunately very little bread is being served in most churches today. There is a lot of talk around cold ovens by people who are starving to death.

Most churches spend most of their time promoting their programs but I believe more time should be spent promoting His presence. Our world doesn't need more programs, what the world needs is more of Him, His power, and His peace.

It doesn't matter what we have in the way of programs, if we don't have Him, then we are really just wasting our time. If His presence isn't felt and His power and Spirit isn't moving in our midst, we might as well lock the doors and go home.

Every where we look we see the evidence of spiritual hunger. The reason people are hooked on drugs and alcohol and pornography and the other sins of this world is because they are hungry for something that they don't have.

What do the hungry find whenever they visit most churches today? Do they find fresh bread or do they find nothing more than stale crumbs from past revivals?

If there is no fresh bread in the church today, it shouldn't surprise us that there is an absence of people. When there is a famine in the house of bread, people are forced to look elsewhere for something to satisfy that hunger in their soul.

"God help us to keep the fires burning. Help us to keep the bread fresh so that all who are hungry can come and be fed."
